NATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ON QUALITY & COMPLIANCE

Now in its second year, the National Symposium on Quality and Compliance is the event shaping the interaction between the quality and compliance functions of healthcare organizations. Shifts in healthcare delivery and payment models necessitate a more aligned interaction between quality and compliance.

The Affordable Care Act has put an emphasis on quality through its goal of better care for individuals, better health for populations, and lower growth in healthcare expenditures. ACA programs such as the Medicare Shared Savings Program, which created ACOs, directly incentivize healthcare organizations to meet the quality goals. The implementation of financial incentives for organizations to meet quality measures opens the door for compliance infractions.

The purpose of the National Symposium on Quality and Compliance is to show that an integrated approach to quality and compliance enhances both patient care, financial integrity and regulatory compliance.

The Symposium will engage quality and compliance leaders in a dialogue with a national audience of healthcare executives able to influence the direction of their organizations. The National Symposium on Quality and Compliance will continue to bridge the educational gap between quality and compliance professionals and define best practices in quality-compliance integration.

KEY TOPICS

- Compliance/quality metrics that are meaningful and resistant to manipulation.
- Adapting quality improvement programs from various industries.
- Using technology to bridge the quality/compliance gap.
- Aligning incentives for quality and compliance.
- Plan & provider collaboration for quality/compliance.
- Overcoming organizational and governance barriers to integration.
- Clinical quality versus business process quality.

Participants will work with thought leaders to bridge the gap between quality and compliance in their own organizations.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

The target audience includes professionals from both provider and plan organizations, including:

- Compliance professionals,
- Quality improvement professionals,
- Clinical leaders,
- Board members,
- General counsel and legal professionals,
- Utilization review professionals,
- Internal auditors, and others interested in the connections between compliance and quality in healthcare.

COMPLIANCE PROFESSIONALS

Over the past decade compliance professionals have been challenged to learn the essentials of medical records, physician relationships, conflict of interests and other areas of heightened external scrutiny. As healthcare funding begins to track quality measures, compliance professionals need to acquaint themselves with both the language and practices of quality improvement.

QUALITY PROFESSIONALS

Even as the demand for improved outcomes and error reduction have driven quality improvement, quality is feeling new pressure from the finance functions of side of the house. Today's quality professionals are being asked to go beyond improving clinical outcomes to improving business processes. New reimbursement models that put pressure on outcome measures mean that compliance can not be considered someone else's business.
